

My wife and I believe that opportunities for ownership should not be broadened or increased. We are deeply concerned about the threat to democracy that we believe would come with increased centralization of distribution of ideas. Furthermore, we believe that the FCC is acting hastily, with too little informing of the American public.